GONE BEFORE.

Answer to "RING THE BELL SOFTLY."

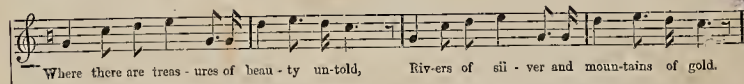

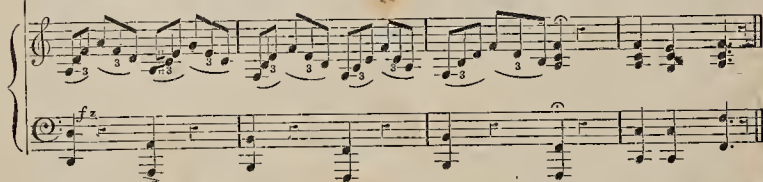

W. F. M.

1. Gone where the sha - dows of life can-not come, Where ev-ry stran-ger may find a sweet home,

Sev-ered the chain that has bound them to earth. Gone to the land where the soul has new birth;

Where there are treas - ures of beau - ty un-told, Riv-ers of sil - ver and moun-tains of gold.

Ad lib.

Weep not to miss one from earth's wea-ry shore, Earth has an an-gel less, Heav-en one more.

CHORUS.

Where there are trea-sures of beaut-ty un-told, Riv-ers of sil-ver and moun-tains of gold,

ad lib.

Weep not to miss one from earth's wea-ry shore, Earth has an an-gel less, Heav-en one more.

D. C. Last Time.

Weep not to miss one from earth's wea-ry shore, Earth has an an-gel less, Heav-en one more.

2.

Gone where the angels are chanting His praise,
 Freed from the tumult of earth's dreary ways,
 Gone from the darkness of life's bitter night,
 Into the stillness of Heaven's sweet light;
 Only a brief while before we must go,
 From life's mixed chalice, its joy and its woe,
 Weep not to miss one from earth's weary shore,
 Earth has an angel less, Heaven one more.

CHORUS.—Where there are treasures, &c

3.

Gone where the battle is over and won,
 And the true light of the spirit begun,
 Gone where the anthem is full and complete,
 Sung by the angels, in heavenly street,
 Gone where the harvest is gathered to God,
 Soul to its Maker, and dust to its sod,
 Weep not to miss one from earth's weary shore,
 Earth has an angel less, Heaven one more.

CHORUS.—Where there are treasures, &c
